which is well written and of deep interest.

No reader of "John Halifax, Gentleman," same vuthor, whatever its subject or aim, must be a book of power and great interest. Miss Mulock has given to the world a choice series of popular fiction. Her delineations of character have truth for their recommendation, and are marked throughout with purity of sentiment, dramatic power, vigorous expression and a wholsome tone and spirit. The key of the book noticed here may b found in the text quoted on the title page : "In the awful mystery of human life, it is a consolation sometimes to believe that our mistakes, perhaps even our sins, are permitted to be instruments of our education for immortality."
